198, BATH STREET, GLASGOW, 13th March, 1891. FILST QUARTERLY REPORT FOR 1891 ON ROBERT BROWN'S FOUR CHOWN" BLEND OF SCOTOH WHISKY. I have made a minute and careful chemical analysis of a fair sample of several hundred casks of Robert Brown's Four Crown" Blend of Scotch Whisky, taken by myself from the bonded stores in which the casks are lying, and the result of my analysis indicates that it is a pure Whisky, which has been matured for a considerable period in Sherry Casks, and from its mild and agreeable flavour I am of opinion that it is a very fine blend of Scotch Whicky.

PURE VOLATILE EUCALYPTUS OIL. DISTILLED FROM THE LEAVES OF SELECTED SPECIES OF

EUCALYPTUS OIL has long taken a fore-most place as a "household remedy" in Australia. When applied externally it has a powerful stimulant and southing action but does not blister the most sensitive skin and no applistion known will so quickly subdue the pain of muscular rhoumatism. Taken internally in small doses, it sets as powerful stimulant and antispasmedic, whilst its secondary action induces sleep. The penetrating agreeable vapour of the Oil is sedutire, and when inhaled relieves Asthma, Broughitis, Catarrh, and Sore Throat. It is also a most powerful antiseptio and gormicite, being three times as effectual as Carbolio Acid in preventing development of Bacteria, its uses in this direction being very numerous. The active properties of the Oil depend upon this Oil, prepared specially for us, to contain the largest obtainable percentage of Encalyptol and Sept. 8, FREJE, Dadish str., for Hollow twice that of the ordinary Encalyptes Oil of Sept. 8, FORMOSA, British str., for Swatow.

HONGKONG, SEPTEMBER 978, 1899. REDUCED to its elementary principle international law is simply the right of the strongest. For purposes of mutual convenience nations of something hie equal power may, in order to avoid armed conflicts whose issue would be uncertain, or for the adjustment of minor questions fighting about, agree to settle their differences by reference to more or less established precedents, and where they cannot agree between themselves as to the principles governing the case, may consent to arbitration, as England and America have twice done. But had either England or America been so much stronger than the other as to be able arms are each about two feet long. to enforce her will without difficulty it is safe to say that no call would have been made upon the services of a court of arbitration. England would not consent to refer Siam's offer to submit the questions at issue to arbitration was not so much as considered by France. Just as in private life it is the man with the long purse who alone can afford to fee the best lawyers to argue doubtful case for him and carry it hably be put on the Indian line at once. if necessary from one court to another, so in international life it is the country with the big battalions that can most effectively take advantage of the established principles, such as they are, of international law, when they Mount Austin Hotel this evening, commencing the barometer has probably not been tapped for tell in its own favour, while denying the at 8 p.m. :application of the same principles when they seem to tell in favour of a weaker state. apply further coercion to Siam. The point! The Hobe Chronick gives the following we refer to is that, of the blockade of Bangkok. France did- not declare war on Sam, nor is she likely to do so even if the latter power refuses assent to all the terms of M. La Myse DE VILERS' treaty. The infliction of reprisals is as far as she would go under any circumstances, and although the distinction between reprisals and war may be one without a difference so for as the contestants are concerned the difference is an important one as affecting the rights of third parties. A blockade under such circumstances VEGETABLE & FLOWER SEEDS is what is called a pacific blockade. The Speciator in discussing the notification of the recent blockade, before it came into force, enys that by establishing a pacific blockade the blocksding power does not acquire anything like the same rights over neutral sailors in sampans and attacked them so savageressels which she would acquire by proclaiming an ordinary blockade after a formal declaration of war. "The declaration of war " makes other nations privy to the relations " existing between the belligerents, puts them " into the position of neutrals, and makes them liable to capture if they attempt " to break the blockade. The case of a pacific blockade is, however, different, speaking broadly, only good against the vessels of the Power blockaded, and neutrals are not bound to attend to it." supporting this opinion our contemporary quotes a declaration of the Institut de Droit International at its meeting in 1887, and also from a letter by Professor HOLLAND, in

In this case, since there is no belligoroney, there is no neutrality, and the ships of States other than that to be interfered with. The particular mode of applyblockade" dates, as is well known, only from 1827. It has indeed been enforced, by England as well as by France, upon several occasions, seminst the vessels of third Powers; but this practice has always been protested against, especially by French jurists, as an unwarrantable interference with the rights of such Powers, and was acknowledged by Lord Palmerst n two wins. It is probable that another match will whether he was a fit and proper person to hold to be illegal. The British Government distinctly warned the French in 1884 that their blockade Formesa could be recognized as affecting firitish wessels only if it constituted an act of war against China; and when the Great Powers in 1886 proclaimed a pacific blookade of the constant of Greece they carefully limited its operation to shipe under the Greek flag.

Such two Japanese rivals The Kobe Regatta will a notification would, our contemporary save constitute a condition of belligerancy quite be an excellent thing if the V.R.C. could send as effectively as any formal declaration of war. Certain it is that France intended to enforce the blockade as against neutral vessels, had it been maintained, as she did the blockade of Formosa. The question is whether England would consent to see of the threatening typhoon a large number her trade thus interfered with and one of the principal sources of the rice supply of Singapore and Hongkong closed to her. Since Siam draws all her essential supplies from the interior a blockade of Bangkok would do her comparatively little harm, less harm, probably, than it would do to British trade in the Far East. The idea of being able to do a wanton injury to British were among the speakers and a very pleasant trade without fear of retaliation would no doubt be very pleasant to the French, but if it were acted on too strongly it might become necessary for England to ignore the

Mr. Francis-Yes; and to hear all applications pending at the time. Our second point, my Lord-and-by far the most important point with reference not merely to this present ease but to all future cases, is our objection to the constitution of the Court, on the ground that certain of the Magistrates who were present and who adjudicated on this application were biassed against the application, and were persons opposing the granting of the application. If we can adduce sufficient proof of their bias, then, according to all rules of law, they were disqualified from sitting on that bench of Justices. It has nlways been laid down that pecuniary interest disqualifies a person from exercising a judicial function, or the presence of any direct evidence of bius. In this case there has been no question of pecuniary interest, and therefore we have only to show that there was a bias existing. The facts Sharp, a Justice of the Peace, took an active rest 38 each, or fourteen days: part in the matter. The very assence of being really unconventional is not to be distracted by the notion. "O her second do this or that, and so I ought to." or the fear of what people will say or think, under particular circumstances. To be auconventional is to be free from the convenions, egreements, and rules which are supposed to bind society, and to take your nwn course independently and without kay thought of the consequences. The modern unconventional person, however, breaks through the rules and regulations, or what are supposed to be the rules and regulalious, of Society, not because she or he really wants to do so, but because it is the fashion. It has become the fashion to be unconventional. The rabbits of Australia are learning to climb But the fashion is conventionalism in its worst trees in their search for food, and their feet are and most aggravated form. The neople who deliberately wear very shabby clothes on Sunday, in order that they may not be accused of being me dimanchés, are doing a thoroughly conventional not. In their little world it has become a convention not to wear smart clothes on Sunday. just as in other little worlds it is still a donvention to wear one's Sunday-best. The smart man, then, who carefully refrains from patting on a black coat on Sunday, is just as conventional as the unsmart one who religiously does likes to think himself a bold bad man who defles all laws human and divine, and is utterly unconventional. As a matter of fact, however, he is nothing of the kind, but only the devotee of a somewhat stricter and narrower sect than the "an who wears the broadcloth. It is often not a little amusing to notice the extreme auxiety displayed by modern " women of the world" to ob y to the letter the conventions of unconventionalism. They are perpetually on the look-out for what they call conventionality in order that they may go and do the opposite. For example it has come to be considered conventional not and in an hour it had become intolerable; it to let the servants stop in the room during laucheon, or even to appear at all after the meat with a hot iron, though no swelling or inflamma. has been earwed. Poople may nowednys be seen laboriously bringing the conversation round to the drains, in order to show that they are not afraid of talking about them. There is a feeling abroad that a certain seal of unconventionality can be more easily set upon oneself in this way than in any other. A lady, ugain, tells a risque little story, not because it is laughable, or because it is auropes, or because it comes into her head to do so at the moment, but deliberately and solemnly because she imagines it will show prople that she has not got the ideas about social correctness entertained, or supposed to be enterfulned, by country clargyman's wife. The assumed farmeity of the modern young man at breakfast in a country house will be exchanged for a smiling face, and elaborate if clumsy attempts to pleaso. The young married women will assume an artificial air of reserve, and will be as punotilious about small ceremonial matters as they are now free-and-easy. Of course, the reaction, like all reactions, will go too far, and, except among the few sansible people who aim at being neith r conventional nor unconventional, but who sincerely wish to be natural and themselves, we shall have formality for the time enshrined and ONE BOX OF CLARKE'S B 41 PILLS is war- worshipped.
